

Eve solar system map

Greetings capsuleers, I'm happy to announce another development project for EVE Online. VoidViewer is aimed to provide an outlook of New Eden and aid in navigation. Application currently shows K-space star systems. Capsuleer can add jump gates and set routes. Project is in early stage of development and more features are planned. Project started in May 2020. I ...

Markers are only visible when you are zoomed in for a closeup view of a system. The rightmost "Focus" button will always center the map on your current position. The solar system menu lets you fine tune the icons that you see when you zoom in on a system. If you are mining, for example, you can show asteroid belts and omit moons and planets.

(And have an option to show the names of the solar systems / constellations / regions without having to mouse over them). "The scanner is closed by default and can be opened with the "scanner" button on the HUD, left of the round center display (hotkey Ctrl+F11 by default).

There are a number of keyboard shortcuts / keyboard controls that offer alternatives for mouse control of the EVE client. These can be found in the client's Configuration menu and can be re-assigned to suit a player's preference. ...

There is no border. It also doesn't matter how you fit the ship, you'll never move even a pixel across the system map at sub-warp speeds. That said, through various methods/bugs in the past it was possible to get to extreme ranges outside of the solar system and create safes that were not visible on the solar system map and out of d-scan range.

So, you need to find another route. Right-click on Sujarento and select AVOID SOLAR SYSTEM. (This example is mostly academic. Sujarento is a Factional Warfare system that can carry some dangers, however.) With Sujarento now on the Avoidance List, the Autopilot sets a new course for Jita which is longer, but doesn't go through Sujarento.
