My suggestion is to attach a storage controller from RS to an interface from AE2, then use the disk manipulator to move all items from your disks back into the system. With the external storage of the interface being the only valid target, all the items get ...

Refined Storage is a storage mod where you can build a storage network made up of devices. Those devices manipulate your storage. In this tutorial: You'll craft a Disk Drive. A Disk Drive can contain item or fluid storage disks. Those disks will provide your storage network with storage.

Perhaps the most telling difference is the two mods" "Block Placer" components. The RS Constructor has a single filter slot, which must be filtered in order to work, and will actively remove an item from storage and place it in the world. If you want to place a second block in the same area, you need a 2nd Constructor.

Neither is a really great workaround. This issue does not seem to affect external storage at all - that continues to work when the importers and exporters stop. Version (Make ...

Not including "X" in Refined Storage makes this mod useless when mods like "Y" aren't installed! The philosophy of the mod is to have as less overlap with other mods and to only focus on the storage network part of the mod. If other mods are required to achieve something, that isn't a problem. Examples:

Refined Storage energy . I expanded my Refined Storage System with the multiblock crafter from Reborn Storage. At first I used a small structure, and tried to extend it after running low on recipe storage. But that deleted a lot of my patterns and got really buggy. ... Fixed External Storage being in item and fluid mode at the same time. Fixed Wrench working when player is not sneaking. Fixed External Storage cache counting items up when extracting. Fixed External Storage cache not working properly on Compacting Drawers. Removed. Removed ability to put External Storages on Refined Storage network blocks.

I see your question has been answered so here's a little extra. You likely want the system to prioritize storing into the drawers, so set the priority of the external storage attached to the controller higher than your base system; usually higher than 0.

I isolated my refined storage to a RS Controller, Grid, and External Storage and the issue still happens. The drawers block as well as my RS system are all contained within one ...

Couple things you should do, make sure the RS external storage on the storage controller has a higher priority than your RS network. 2, lock all the drawers with a configuration tool, this will prevent unwanted items from filling the empty spots.

Refined Storage. I'm not crazy about AE's 63 item type limit on drives or channels on cables/controllers.

Autocrafting is also more simple to setup in RS. One thing RS isn't good at is autocrafting essences into higher tier ones from Mystical Agriculture.

also use the apotheosis enchantment library for enchanted books, put your armor in an armory from functional storage. you can even put storage bus/external storage on them. void any iron spells scrolls, bows, corail tombstone scrolls especially or put them in a sophisticated barrel/backpack if you need them. avoid putting excessive nbt items ...

An Exporter takes items from Storage and sends them to the attached inventory. You have not mentioned any "Storage" on your little system. In RS, the storage blocks are the External Storage, Disk Drive (with Storage Disks), and <size> Storage Blocks. The simplest thing to change on your system would be to replace the Importer with an External ...

Having a small problem with my Refined Storage connecting with my Refined EMC Link. I have 3 of them connected to external storage nodes, and sometimes they seem to work properly. However I'm stepping up my Power Flowers and after a certain point (after MK7) when I place the target in my link I can't draw them from the system.

Fixed bug where External Storage could only handle 1 fluid inventory per block. Fixed shift clicking a created pattern going into Grid inventory. Fixed crash when moving a wireless item with the number keys. Fixed bug where item storage tracker didn't save sometimes. Fixed bug where External Storage doesn't detect new inventory when rotating.

RS requires an external mod to supply Forge Energy, where as AE2 supports both Forge Energy and Energy Units, and has its own AE Generator if you have neither of them. Modern RS uses exclusively simple 3x3 crafting recipes, where as AE2 forces you to use a few crafting mechanics it is perfectly able to automate
